ducts of the BYU Press range from Banyan, class schedules and catalogs. NO VACANCY signs. Those pictured include just a few of the many publications the versatile press is capable of producing.

Never Judge A Book By Its Cover

It can be deceiving! To show this true but true point seems to describe the covers of the BYU Press more accurately than you might imagine at first glance.

Ordinary student on campus may not be impressed with the covers where the mighty BYU press rolls. However, a second look this time inside the unique frame structure casts a different light on the scope and achievement of the press.

Instance, did you ever stop to consider where or how the book is printed? Did you know that it requires a full carload of paper to print or that the pages are printed at once? Or, for the Banyan's "first of its kind" rating by the Associated College Press is due in part to the quality of sharp reproduction photographs and legible printing it contains. These are areas where the press really shines.

The press is no small operation. Said Frank Haymore, manager of the printing plant, approximately 1 million pages are printed annually by the press. Roughly 150 printing jobs in various stages of production are in progress at the plant. The presses, big and little, are completed each day.

One of the larger printing jobs in the area, the process are of meeting deadlines and handling quality with any operator comparable size, said Mr. Haymore.

Large work orders for printer reach 28 full-time employees and 60 students "busy as bees" during peak production periods. The presses hum all hours of the day and night, with the exception of two during the weeks of morning.

Inside the Daily Universe, the press includes class schedules, a new 1964-65 catalog, recruitment brochures and a student activity calendar, to name just a few.

Haymore said that the press is continually adding new equipment as needed and existing so rapidly that storage space for paper had to be provided elsewhere.

entirely added to the press is a binding machine which combines gluing and folding of the covers in one swift motion.

In addition to the binding machine, there are seven multilith machines which keep four or five men occupied full time. There are four linotype machines which set type in shifts to keep up with campus demands as well as the big "29" and "39" Miehle offset presses which tackle the big jobs like the Banyan.

Color reproductions are usually done on the Miehle presses and may require four separate runs to produce the final full color product.

What keeps the job from becoming merely routine? "Next to the author himself, we are the first to learn what's new on the campus," said Mr. Haymore.

Utah Higher Education Conference

Scheduled for BYU Campus Sept. 9-11

Between 1000 and 1500 Utah college and university faculty members and state officials are expected to attend the 1964 Utah Conference on Higher Education at BYU Sept. 9-11.

Dr. Gerritt deJong Jr. of BYU and president of the conference said all nine of the institutions of higher learning in the State will be represented. These include Utah State University, BYU, University of Utah, Weber State College, Westminster College, Snow College, Carbon College, College of Southern Utah, and Dixie College.

Participating also will be the State Department of Public Instruction, Utah Congress of Parents and Teachers, city, county, and state officials.

All of the general sessions, sectional meetings, banquets and luncheons will be scheduled in the new Y Center, one of the largest buildings in the nation.

Geology Staff Writes Book

Four members of the geology department at BYU are the authors of two new books.

Quartz, feldspar and calcite are described as the most common minerals on the earth's surface in "Physical Geology Laboratory Manual" by Dr. William K. Hamblin and James D. Howard. The book is designed for beginning geology courses.

Lee Fred Brathwaite and Dr. J. Keith Rigby have developed an anatomical approach to the study of fossils in a book designed for beginning courses in historical geology. "Historical Geology Exercises."

Both books are scheduled for September publications by Burgess Publishing Company of Minneapolis.

Western Steel Executive ...

Royden G. Derrick Named Convocation Speaker

Royden G. Derrick, president of Western Steel Company, will deliver the commencement address at the summer convocation of the 99th Commencement at Brigham Young University Aug. 21. It was announced today by Acting President, Earl C. Crockett.

The services will be held in the George Albert Smith Field House, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The academic procession, with graduates, faculty, Board of Trustees and special guests in caps and gowns will begin at the north quad at 7:10 p.m.

A native of Salt Lake City, Mr. Derrick started engineering at University of Utah and organized the Western Steel Company in 1945. He is also president of its subsidiaries, Steel Erection and Rigging Company, Wesco Realty Company and Western Steel Service Center.

Prominent also in other business, he is president of the Salt Lake City Life Insurance Company; member of Salt Lake City Advisory Board, First Security Corp.; and director of Utah Citizens Rate Association.

Active in civic, professional and education endeavors, he is chairman of the University of Utah Board of Regents, past president of Utah Manufacturers Association, regional vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers, member of Salt Lake City Chamber of Commerce Board of Governors and a member of the Central Utah Water Conservancy District Board.

Mr. Derrick served the Department of Commerce as a member of the Trade Mission to South India in 1959 and is part of a study team to Latin-Bolivia Partners of the Alliance.

He is a member of the Monument Park State Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Music Critic Lectures Today

Musical satirist Jiggy Thomson will lecture Tuesday at 10 a.m. in the Center Ballroom. The public is invited.

A man of great versatility, Mr. Thomson has distinguished himself as a pianist, organist, conductor, critic and lecturer. He also has authored four books.

Graduated from Harvard University in 1928, he has since been accorded honorary degrees by Syracuse and Rutgers universities.

He has been guest conductor with the New York Philharmonic, Boston, Philadelphia, New Orleans, Kansas City Symphony Orchestra, plus many others in the United States, Europe, South America.

He has composed music most of his life, experimenting with all forms from masses to musical portraits of people. Commenting on these portraits Mr. Thompson said, "... all of them (are) drawn from life, the latter posing for me as he would for an artist's portrait."

During his career he has been commissioned to write music for plays, films, two operas, ballet and radio.

Staff Devotes Manual Profits

Scholarships, fellowships and grants-in-aid will be available to BYU students majoring in zoology because of the generosity of the Department of Zoology and Entomology faculty.

The staff recently wrote a manual called Introductory Zoology Laboratory Workbook and agreed that all royalties would be used for student aid rather than divided among the authors, according to Dr. D. Eldon Beck, department chairman.

The new workbook covers all principles of animal biology such as animal distribution, classification, physiology and genetics. Generalized concepts that govern living of animals in certain places (ecology), health, disease, disease transmission and parasites are subjects also treated.

The book will be sent to university committees throughout the United States for their examination and possible use; however, the manual will be used principally at BYU because it is designed for the school's specific purposes.

It is published by Burgess Publishing Company, Minneapolis, Minn.

Academic Emphasis ...

Morrell Slates 'Red Youth'

Professor Edwin B. Morrell of the Department of Political Science will present a lecture on Communism Youth Thursday, Aug. 6, in room 184 JKB, at 8:30 p.m. according to Emil Capik, chairman of the event.

Professor Morrell spent an entire academic year at the University of Moscow on a Harvard graduate student under the U.S. Russian Studies Exchange Program. After leaving the country he was denounced in the Soviet press as a spy.

He offers a first hand experience along with a very interesting film of his stay in the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia. He will be prepared to discuss the attitudes and the general feeling of youth and students who are subjected to the iron-clad discipline of their Communist masters.

"FRIENDLY DISCUSSION" DRAWS CROWD

Standing room only, and very little of that was available to students interested in the "Friendly Discussion" carried on by Dr. Chauncey Riddle and Dr. Richard Poll Thursday evening.

Naming the Right Wing Radicals

by Sidney J. Harris

It's an interesting peculiarity of our social order that while the term "Communist" is flung around frequently and often carelessly, its opposite number "Fascist" is hardly used at all.

In Europe, this is not the case. People have no hesitancy in speaking of the rightwing radicals as "Fascists," for this is what they are. To speak of them as "extreme conservatives" is a foolish contradiction in terms.

And it seems quite plain to me that there are many more Fascists and Fascist sympathizers in the United States than there are Communists and their sympathizers—unless, of course you care to adopt the Fascist line and suggest that everyone who favors staying in the U. N. and retaining Social Security is a Red fellow-traveler.

We seem to be so exercised about Communist influence in this country, which is negligible both in numbers and appeal to the American temper. Yet, year by year, one sees a Fascist spirit rising from the people, although it is called by many other softer names, and has even achieved a certain dubious respectability in some circles.

There is no reason why there shouldn't be a Fascist movement in this country; nearly every nation has one. But it should be called by its right name and it should be willing to accept the consequences of its position, as the Fascist parties do.

Just as Communism always begins with an appeal to "humanity" and "equality" and ends with inhuman despotism, so does Fascism always begin with an appeal to "nationalism" and "individualism" and ends with a military collectivism far worse than the disease it purports to cure.

These twin evils are the mirror-image of one another. It would be the supreme irony if, rejecting the blandishments of Communism, we fell hysterically into the arms of Fascism disguised (as always) as Defender of the Faith.

To Tell Time Calls for High I.Q.

Test your knowledge of the clock, which we all use every day, by answering the following questions.

Question No. 1: If a store displayed a sign stating that it would be open for business between the hours of 12 p.m. to 12 a.m.—assuming that the doors were locked at noon—on the closing hour would a person who arrived at the store at 12:01 a.m. be able to enter? Answer: No one knows. There are no such times as 12 a.m. or 12 p.m.

Question No. 2: What do the abbreviations a.m. and p.m. stand for? Answer: Ante Meridian and Post Meridian.

Question No. 3: At what time of day does the sun reach its meridian? Answer: At twelve noon.

Question No. 4: If the word ante means "before" and the word post means "after" what times of day do the expressions ante meridian and post meridian refer to? Answer: Ante meridian refers to the twelve hours before meridian (noon) and post meridian refers to the twelve hours following meridian (noon).

Question 5: What are the current ways to express the hours of twelve at midday and the hour of twelve following 12:00 p.m.? Answer: They are expressed as 12:00 noon and 12:00 midnight.

Question No. 6: Are there any signs on campus that use the incorrect expressions of 12:00 a.m. or 12:00 p.m.? Answer: Yes, see the sign in the Y Center on the bowling lanes door.

Score yourself: Six answers correct you could be a university graduate. Five answers correct: you might be a very observant undergraduate. Four answers correct: You are at least a high school graduate. Three answers correct: You have done an excellent job of self-education. Less than three answers correct: We're sorry but afraid that you will have to repeat Sandbox 123.

Dear Editor:

We were happy to see student's response to Dr. Poll's (et al.) written attack on John Stormer's "None Dare Call It Treason." It is encouraging to see people who are not bound to accept unchallenged such scholarly critique as the one the "Daily Universe" printed last Thursday (June 22).

As the students pointed out, the book was not only misquoted, but comparatively inferences were made so that the book was equated with the "carefully documented" exposures of Mormonism." Dr. Hugh Nibley has gone to a lot of trouble in his own research "The Myth Makers," "Sounding Brass," etc. to establish how "badly" "exposés of Mormonism" are documented. Mr. Stormer's book quotes many reliable sources such as the Congressional Record and Senate Committee reports, etc. We are surprised that Dr. Poll, and others of his thinking would be so anxious to debunk such a carefully documented book, especially considering their professions as historians.

After speaking with several of the men who signed the critique, I was amazed to discover from them that some had not even read the book, or had only partially read the book, and some of them had not even seen the tract at all (and still haven't)! This reflects on the scholarship of those who signed the critique without really doing some first-hand investigation and reflects morose on Dr. Poll (who heads the list).

A more LJS approach to many of the problems exposed by Mr.

Stormer may be found in Bro. Jerald L. Nequists' compilation "Prophecy, Prophecy, and National Survival." It contains many of the statements by modern-day apostles and prophets on many of the controversial subjects covered in "None Dare Call It Treason." The bibliographies of the two books are amazingly alike. Perhaps the authors of the critique would find this book more palatable to their spiritual tastes.

Sincerely,

Mr. and Mrs. Eric N. Skousen
Mr. Gerold Gallacher

Spectaculars Cited 'Success'

The flickering lights of the Stroom saw a capacity crowd for engaging music and delightful dining Saturday evening.

The heavily-laden buffet table consisted of ham, turkey, and choice salads and desserts. Dignified waiters added a special touch to the luxuriant atmosphere of soft music, exquisite food and beautiful surroundings.

The 317s floorshow kept the audience laughing and clapping for three encores. The enthusiastic M. C. was the 3-D's own manager, Chris Pooler.

According to the chairman, Tawnee Olsen, the distinguished guests were President and Mrs. Earl C. Crockett. The 317s and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Elmer, Mr. and Mrs. Wells Clow and Summer Studentbody officers.

Film Favorites to Present Tea House of the August Moon

Teahouse of the August Moon, a Cinemascope production, portrays Glenn Ford as a young Army captain who tries to rehabilitate Okinawa by introducing American customs. His efforts are subverted by Sakini, (Marlon Brando), his interpreter. The Americans are Okinawans as a result. The Teahouse, built by Army-civilian cooperation, although a symbol of gracious Oriental living to the Okinawans, is an outrage to the general when he comes on inspection. A good-natured spoofing of occupation troops, beautifully photographed in Japan and Hollywood.

3 Faculty Members Ded to Education Staff

College of Education at Young University has added faculty by 13, according to Dr. Earl C. Crockett, president.

NOTED in the Department of Teacher Education are professors Dr. Milford G. and Dr. Floyd Sucher, and LDS Institute director, principal, Dr. Cottrell and at the University of and BYU, Dr. Sucher, been an elementary principal, holds degrees in Los Angeles State and State Colleges.

ADDITIONAL INSTRUCTORS in education are Anthony L. E. Dean Henderson in L. D. Provost, Mr. Layman, alumnus of Utah State and has worked as a teacher in the U.S. Army at West Point, and at the University of Utah. Henderson has been a teacher and principal in Idaho. Currently a member of ACEI Kindergarten and former elementary teacher, Mrs. Provost, at the University of Utah.

TEACHERS in the LaRue School are Louise L. and Anna Ann Gonyer, Verne Theson, Lorna Millard, Williams, LaMar Drew.

Earlen Durrant and Margie Pace, a University of Utah graduate, Mrs. Young has been a teacher and librarian in Utah high schools. Miss Gonyer has been teaching in California. She received her B.S. at Oregon State University in 1962 and her M.S. at BYU the following year. Mr. Matheson graduated from College of Southern Utah in 1962 and has since worked as an elementary school teacher.

MISS MILLARD, formerly was a home economist for Utah Power and Light Company in Ogden, Utah. Mr. Williams has been a publications adviser and an English teacher. Mr. Drew, Miss Durrant and Miss Pace are all BYU graduates and have been Utah public school teachers.

Students Plan Thurs. Assembly

The upcoming Student Assembly asks the pertinent question: Are you a town mouse or a country mouse? according to Marybeth Raynes, Culture Chairman.

The production will be in the Y Center Ballroom Thursday, at 10 a.m.

The program will feature a light comedy plot with talent numbers, dancing, singing, readings and other forms of entertainment. Miss Raynes said.

Use Ripe Bananas In Delicious Banana Bread

An excellent way to use over-ripe bananas is to use them in banana bread. In fact—the more ripe the bananas the better. You can usually buy over-ripe bananas at a reduced price, too!

Here is a recipe that Susan Mersereau, a sophomore from Washington D.C. says makes delicious banana bread and is just right for this altitude. Susan has already tried it on her roommates and their reaction was definitely positive. "At least they said they liked it," Susan added.

BANANA BREAD ...
 1 cup shortening
 1 cup sugar
 Mix well, then add: 2 eggs
 Mix together:
 1 tsp. baking soda
 4 tsp. boiling water
 Add this to the shortening mixture, plus:
 1 cup crushed bananas
 2 cups flour
 2 tsp. baking powder
 1 tsp. vanilla
 Optional: 1 to 1 cup chopped nuts.

Pour mixture into greased baking pans and put into 350 degree oven for about 45 minutes or until done.

The amount or kind of nuts used is up to the individual taste. Miss Mersereau used pecans. Walnuts are also good in banana bread.

Extra Courses Available

What started out as a modest experiment in concentrated courses given in the two-week period prior to Summer School and the two-week immediately following the close of the summer session has now mushroomed into an extensive offering of courses under many college departments declared Ron Hills of the Special Courses and Conferences department.

This year during the two-week period before summer school began, 120 students spent a portion of their vacation on campus furthering their educational goals.

A complete listing of offerings is now available for the late summer period, Aug. 24 to Sept. 18. A total of 28 courses will be taught in the following departments: Communications, Political Science, Religion, Sociology and Anthropology, Teacher Education, History, Psychology, Botany and Philosophy.

Students will be able to take up to four hours of credit during this period Mr. Hills said. Classes will be taught daily for three hours each day. A two hour class will be covered in a two-week period, and a three hour class will last for three weeks.

GOOD LUCK GRADS

Free rides, swimming, drinks, entertainment and dancing are all part of the 2nd annual Lagoon Day being planned by John Rhinier, Monna McEvers, Ron Shumway, Chris Smith, and Lane Van Tassell. Lagoon Day will be held Saturday.

BYU Lagoon Day Planned For Weekend Enjoyment

Eight or eighty, there's fun in store for everyone who participates in BYU's annual Lagoon Day on Saturday, Aug. 8.

Activities for the day include free swimming in open air pools, riding the roller coaster, visiting the Fun House, or whatever else intrigues the imagination and spirit of the BYU visitor, said Publicity Chairman Chris Smith.

Free drinks will be served throughout the day, and free parking will be provided for those who arrive before 5 p.m. A special student program will be presented at 5 during which a drawing will be held and a free prize awarded to the lucky number.

For couples still young of heart, dancing under the stars will complete the day's events, with nationally famous singer Johnny Cash highlighting the evening.

Free tickets for the rides will be made available to students, faculty and staff. They will be distributed from booths located by the library and Cannon Center. The library booths will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 12 noon daily, and the Cannon Center booth will be open from 5 to 7:30 p.m. daily.

It will be necessary for all to furnish their own transportation to and from Lagoon, located between Salt Lake City and Ogden.

Appropriate dress for day time activities is sport clothes and for night time activities, heels and hose for girls and shirts and ties for the fellows.

Summer Formal Will Develop French Theme

As date zip by, one of the most important days of the summer approaches—August 15 and the Summer Formal.

This will be the first Summer Formal to be held in the new Y Center Ballroom, and the committee members feel it will be special in several other respects also.

This year's setting is France, the elegant Palace of Versailles as indicated in the theme, "Le Jardin de Versailles," or "The Garden of Versailles," by the arrangement of Versailles.

The elegance and grandeur of Marie Antoinette's time and society will be recaptured in the entire atmosphere of the ballroom, and the entertainment planned promises further excursions, according to Publicity Chairman Daniel S. Wong.

The Summer Formal has proven to be a special event in past years. Two years ago couples danced amidst a Parisian atmosphere with the theme, "Toi et Moi a Paris," or "You and Me in Paris." The evening included French side shows, sidewalk-type artists, French imitations of sherry and champagne, pastries, and fashions.

Last year Cannon Center was transformed into the well-known Tara Mansion to enhance the theme, "Gone With the Wind." Spanish music and Weeping Willows adorned the patio for the dance.

With established tradition and present promises, August 15 should be a day to circle on your calendar.

Annual Publications Workshop Held For High School Students

A staff of 20 instructors and lecturers will direct activities of high school editors and staff members from the Western States in the 8th Annual High School Publications Workshop at BYU, Aug. 10-14.

PARTICIPANTS will include faculty advisers as well as student leaders from school yearbooks and newspapers. Sessions will be held in the new Y Center. Dr. Oliver R. Smith, chairman of the BYU Department of Communications, is director of the short course. He is executive secretary of the Rocky Mountain Collegiate Press Association and president of the Utah Association of School Journalism Directors.

SCHOOL newspaper sessions will be led by Clovis L. Hill, J. N. Washburn and Merwin G. Fairbanks. Mr. Hill is a veteran school publications adviser and former visiting instructor in journalism at BYU. Mr. Washburn is adviser of the award-winning "Forkstar" at American Fork High School, and Mr. Fairbanks is manager of student publications and instructor in journalism at BYU.

Hiebert G. Wolsey, assistant professor of communications at BYU, will direct workshop activities for student advertising and business staffs. Student yearbook staffs will be taught by Mrs. Penne Conrad, former editor of the Banner and member of the BYU News Bureau staff. She will be assisted by Robert Pavlovick, school yearbook adviser from Port Angeles, Wash., and BYU students Lynn Thatcher and Gail Coulson.

WALLACE M. BARRETT of the Motion Picture and Communications Dept. staff will lecture on photography. Former student publications staff photographer Gary Hopkins will conduct the training for student cameramen during the week.

Campus Tours Offered Every Day For Visitors

It is not unusual to see a Buddhist Monk, an Olympic contender or a noted journalist along with the ordinary camera-toting tourist on campus these days.

The BYU campus is fast becoming known as one of the sights to see while in Utah, according to Serving Workman, Assistant Director of University Relations.

TOURISTS who schedule Salt Lake City and the "canyons" as attractions to see while in the state, now include the "Y" on their itineraries.

Tours of the campus are conducted daily except Sunday, by arrangement with the Tour office.

Two service units on campus, the Intercollegiate Knights and the Dilas Chaleans are trained as guides by the Tour and Conference offices. They conduct groups on one and a half-hour treks across the campus.

LAST YEAR alone, over 10,000 people from all walks of life visited the campus. Eight hundred seminary students from Weber and Davis counties comprised the largest group ever to tour at one time, said Mr. Workman.

Reactions from our visitors are varied and yet similar in one respect, said Mr. Workman. The majority of guests are impressed with the beauty of the campus with its backdrop of rugged mountains and surrounding green landscape.

THE MAGNITUDE and furnishings planned for the new Fine Arts building, the architecture of the library and other buildings and the research and experimentation underway here are most frequently commented upon, Mr. Workman pointed out.

Naturally, travelers come to the campus for different reasons. Typical of those who visit is Walter Kacovsky, an Assistant professor of English. The professor is here to meet with leagues in the language department to exchange ideas for teaching German and English. He also expressed interest in seeing more about "Mormons" during his stay.

HOSTING forum and dramatic speakers and lecture as well as other dignitaries, part of the function of the Tour and Conference office, Mr. Workman explained.
